Budget Battle

Struggle Continues as Healy Outlines New Campus Bookstore Space Requirement

The "battle of the budget" is not yet over. The Board of Control learned this last Thursday when Administrator of Student Affairs Jack Healy told the Board that it must reconsider the entire budget it passed two weeks ago in terms of a possible $15,000 needed to provide adequate space for the Student Bookstore at the New Campus. Existing plans call for not less than 3,600 square feet for the Bookstore, Healy said. The building which the State has agreed to provide is only 20-by-100.

This means that the Associated Students will have to supply the extra space out of its own pocket either by adding the necessary space to the State building or by erecting a completely new building.

Because the entire board was not present, Treasurer Jack Anderson deferred the matter until the Board's next meeting tomorrow.

Also up for consideration at that time will be a formal protest from the Music Federation on the Board's discontinuation of the Federation subsidy.

(An error occurred in last Wednesday's tabulation of the ASSFSC. The tabulation indicated that the Music Federation had requested a net deficit of $565.00. This figure should have read $325.00)—By Robert E. Preble.

December Set As Revival Date For Literary Mag

Hoping to publish their first effort by the first week in December, the newly-planned college literary magazine has taken care of all foreseeable problems save one—material.

Essays, poems, short stories and any other forms of writing appropriate for such a magazine are being avidly sought by Myron Pollock, guiding genius behind the project.

He said, in a statement to the Language Arts faculty, "With the help of our collectively alert perceptive skills, I'm sure that a mass of extraordinary material will be forthcoming. If, for any of a million reasons, you're unable to find me, please leave any material you may have with Shirley" (College Hall 206B).

A former literary magazine, the "Inklings," folded three years ago after having been in existence several years.—L. L.

Freshman class and member-at-large candidates will be on the ballot for the elections to be held tomorrow and Friday.

Contesting for the office of frosh secretary-treasurer are Wyna Barron, Harold Mendelsen, Francy Logison, Shirley Neuman and June Butters.

Joan Ruggiero, Barbara Ebner, Ruth Steres, Sue Fetz, Joan Gatter, Carmel Tadoro and Joan Turounet are candidates for member-at-large on the board of directors under 16 units.

Those who voted when the polls were opened for a brief time last week may vote again tomorrow and Friday, according to Frelow.

The entire student body may vote for member-at-large candidates.

CAA: Absentees To Be Suspended

Upon the recommendation of its Executive committee, the Club Advisory Association moved last Tuesday night to revamp the suspension procedure for organizations which miss two or more meetings of CAA during any one semester.

Under the new procedure recommended to the Board of Directors, after an organization misses two meetings it will be suspended from on-campus status and its treasury frozen for a minimum six-week period. At the end of this time it must petition the executive committee of CAA and its reinstatement be recommended by that body and CAA as a whole to the Board of Directors before it will be permitted to resume campus participation.

'52 Parade, Variety Show, Friday Afternoon Recess, All Rubbed off Agenda

There will be no Homecoming parade this year, according to Bert Phillips, activities commissioner, the variety show has also been cancelled. There will be no events Thursday nor will classes be dismissed on the following day, Friday, October 31.

Due to a lack of response from outside marching units, the parade scheduled for Friday evening has been cancelled. According to Phillips, the letters asking for their support were sent out at the beginning of the fall semester, a month and a half ago. However most of the organizations contacted had already made commitments four or five months in advance. "Being novices in this business," Phillips said, "we thought that a month and a half was enough time, but we were mistaken. We will, however, send out letters next week for the State Fair which is to be held May 8 and 9. We are also planning to dispatch

Hepper, Therance Okayed For Board Of Pubs

The appointments of Luisa Hepper and Don Therance to the Board of Publications were approved Tuesday by a special committee in the student body office.

Following prolonged discussion, the group voted 5-3 against further consideration of a previous appointee. The committee then attempted, without success, to establish a more definite criteria for appointment to the Board.

Although the practice in the past has been to appoint students with experience in journalism, the present vague requirements include any student at State with over 60 units who is not on the staff of any publication.

Both appointees have been active in journalism; Luisa Hepper on the Golden Gater, and Don Therance, when in high school.

Ike Vs. Adlai In Verbal Battle Here

Faculty Panel To Discuss Candidates' Speeches

In their speaking order the members of the panel are; George Gibson, Eleanor Bushnell, Dale Freeman, John Clark, Charles McClelland, and Leon Lassers.

The topics which will be presented are: the logic of Stevenson's speeches and then the logic of Eisenhower's speeches. Each participant will speak for six minutes on this topic. Following the speeches there will be a question period, during which members of the audience may ask questions of the panel.

PRESIDENTIAL POLL:

Adlai Picked Over Ike; I.P.P. Runs Poor Third

By ALDO PARDINI

Statens are voting for Stevenson, according to a straw ballot taken by the Golden Gater last Thursday and Friday in College Hall. Five hundred and seventy-three answered this question: "Which presidential candidate do you prefer?"

Percentage-wise this was the answer:

Stevenson	51.3%
Eisenhower	40.7%
Undecided	3.5%
Hallinan	2.8%
All others	1.7%

It should be stated that the poll was taken from all types and varieties of students. Those under 21 years of age were asked as well as those of voting age, foreign students ineligible to vote were polled along with a smattering of part-time students. With these factors in mind it is safe to say that this poll is at best representative of the feelings of the students of this college, but does not represent a scientific prediction of who will win the presidential elections.

Another interesting fact which came to light during this poll is the intelligence, or rather, the spelling ability of some college students. To illustrate we present a few gems: Eisonhowir, Ehieson-hower, Eishenhowir. Also Ike was spelled Eke a few times.

Others thought that Stevenson should be spelled Stephenson, that Adlai should be spelled Adalai. But to beat everything a person wrote that he wished to "abstane."

Another fact discovered by the poll was that some students have a "sense of humor." Some thought that Pogo would make the better president, while history students thought that Coolidge, Calvin that is, should have another shot at the crown.

If the reader will examine the percentage chart at the beginning of this article we will explain what constitutes "all others" . . . 1.7%. In this figure is included votes for Pogo, Collidge, Dobbs, Hoopes, Truman, and MacArthur. Votes not counted in this poll went to Pat Lyons and Wayne Brannan who are running for Frosh presidency. (These names are included in this story only for the purpose of illustration: Two girls were asked if they would like to be polled. They voted. For Frosh president that is. They were told that this was a poll and we wanted them to choose their preference for president of the United States. There are at least two frosh girls on this campus who think that we are crazy. For all we know maybe more.)

One girl was asked if she would like to vote. With a look of ice she answered, "Do I look like I'm 21?"

UN Week Speaker

Mr. Johnson-Smith, speaking on "British Policy and British Participation in the United Nations," expressed the feeling that the U. N. can be effective only through the cooperation of individual members. The event took place in Frederic Burk auditorium. (See story on this page.) (Photo by Lenore Ricci)

Calif. Research Exams Open To State Seniors

Seniors at San Francisco State wishing to get into research work may file for a state civil service examination up to November 15, the State Personnel Board said today.

The beginning position, Research Assistant, requires only college graduation, including a course in statistics. The pay is $281 to $325 a month.

A higher post, Junior Research Technician, is open to graduates with one year of experience in research or statistical work. Graduate study of 12 semester units in certain fields may be substituted for experience.

The technician job pays $325 to $395 a month.

Openings in both classes are chiefly in Sacramento, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

The examinations will be given December 6 throughout California wherever the number of candidates warrant. Students may take them with a view to appointment at the end of the college year.

Applications and descriptive bulletins are available at the campus placement office, and from the State Personnel Board at Sacramento, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

British Consul: UN Strength Lies in Mutual Cooperation

"Americans like gadgets—gadgets that work. The United Nations is a gadget that works or will eventually," said Dr. Theodore Treutlein Monday in opening the first in a series of three programs honoring the anniversary of the United Nations. Treutlein then introduced the speaker of the day, Geoffrey Johnson-Smith of the British consulate.

Mr. Johnson-Smith discussed the problems that make the U.N. less efficient than it should be. He divided them into two categories: those that are caused by interference in domestic affairs of other nations by the U.N., and the constant accusations of one nation against another. According to Mr. Johnson-Smith, these problems have something in common; they both test "how far the United Nations can interfere with member nations."

An example of the former problem as given by the representative of the British consul is the fact that the communists argue that the Korean war started as a civil war, and that it was definitely a domestic problem which does not warrant the interference of the U.N. They charge the United States as the aggressor. However, the United Nations' member nations dispute this point, placing this conflict under the surveillance of the U.N. as more than a "domestic problem."

There are also examples where the U.N. has overstepped its boundaries, as in the conflict of ambassadors in Spain. Member nations of the U.N. felt that ambassadors should be withdrawn from Spain in view of the fascist nature of the Franco regime. A year later, in 1950, the decision was reversed, because it was decided that the nature of the government was a domestic problem and that the United Nations had erred in interfering.

In regard to the second problem—that of the accusations of one country against another—Mr. Johnson-Smith expressed the feeling that "if these countries would spend more time on positive criticism rather than on negative complaints, and if they would contribute more to the U.N." this problem would solve itself. To stress his point on this matter Mr. Johnson-Smith used a well-worn phrase with a few variations, "No representation without taxation."

"There may be something wrong over the point of domestic problems," he concluded, but all who have worked with the United Nations are agreed that there wasn't the necessary spirit to make the thing work—there is something wrong with ourselves instead of the gadget."—Laura Bottaro.

Runners Drop Santa Barbara; Gridders Lose

HOMEcoming GAME SATURDAY

Gauchos Top Gator Gridders 20-6; Jacobs Tallies For Crippled Team

By HAL GRANT

Santa Barbara's ground attack, sparked by the shifty running of fullback Dave Gorrie, smothered the SF State gridgers 20-6 last Saturday night at Santa Barbara's La Playa stadium before a homecoming crowd of 4700.

The Gauchos, who before Saturday's contest hadn't been able to accumulate more than 175 yards per game on the ground, smashed their way to a net rushing gainage of 265 yards.

After a scoreless first quarter the Gauchos drove 24 yards in seven plays to initiate the tallying, Dave Gorrie going over from the two.

In the third period the game broke open when State's QB Maury Duncan engineered a 68 yard TD march via four consecutive completed aeriels. End Merrill Jacobs took a 17 yard Duncan heave to register the Gators lone tally.

On the ensuing kick-off Santa Barbara's Gary Morris romped 90 yards for a score after taking a reverse from halfback Bill Davis. Tony Fardella made a tremendous, but unsuccessful, diving leap at Morris on the State 15.

The clincher came early in the fourth quarter when the Gauchos marched to the Gator 28 on 13 plays. Then left half Bob Schoup tossed an eight yarder to end George Mattias who romped 20 yards to pay dirt. Bucky Baird split the uprights to end the scoring with a 20-6 count.

This Saturday night the Gators play host to the Chico State Wildcats. Kick-off time is scheduled for 8:00 p.m.

CCSF Draws With State Soccermen

The Gator booters showed promise of becoming the tieingest State team yet as they fought to a 1-1 deadlock with CCSF at the Rams' field, Saturday, October 25.

After trailing the State team throughout most of the four quarters played, Larry Agius of the Ram squad squeezed the ball past Gator goalie Owen Kashaveroff, to tie the contest at 1-1.

The Staters had scored earlier in the contest, tallying their only point in the first quarter when Charlie Andrews booted the ball into the net to boost the Gators into the lead.

From then on until the fourth quarter the contest was a battle of defenses with neither squad being able to generate enough offensive steam to dent their opponent's goal.

In soccer, the playing of an overtime period takes place only through mutual agreement of the two coaches and the Ram coach was satisfied with a tie game against the Gators. Thus the two teams called it quits at the end of the regulation period of time.

JV Footballers Succumb To Marin

College of Marin's passing attack proved to be the downfall of the SF State JV footballers last Friday night in the Marin stadium before a crowd of approximately 300 fans.

The Marin QB Bill Jennings tossed a total of 17 passes, completing 9 for a net of 196 yards to lead the Marinites to a 39-19 victory.

Fullback Bill Hildebrandt was the sparkplug of the Marin running attack. He averaged 15.6 yards per carry, his longest jaunt being a 70 yard TD romp in the second quarter.

The only bright spot in the Gator offense was QB Bob Springer's 86 yard opening kick-off return. Bob outmaneuvered the whole Marin team in making his way to TD dirt. Bob Carroll, 220 pound Gator fullback, also turned in a creditable performance averaging 7.5 yards per carry.

Jim Shettler Paces Teammates To Victory With Record Breaking Time

Paced by record breaker Jim Shettler, San Francisco State's "best ever" cross country team swamped the University of California at Santa Barbara 15-40 last Saturday morning on the Gauchos' home course.

State's five man traveling squad looked in excellent shape as they annexed the first five places in the race, with only 1:53 separating Shettler from State's fifth man, Hal Grant.

The Santa Barbara course which measures four miles is considered one of the toughest 'regulation' routes on the coast. The race begins with one-half lap around the La Playa football stadium track and then heads for the hills. After two miles of slight upgrade alternating between a dirt path and an asphalt highway the course levels off and then takes a sharp drop of about 75 feet onto a road next to the Santa Barbara beach. The route includes one more hill and then finishes with one and one-quarter laps around the track.

Running After Fast Girls May Cause Man to Lose Head

By CEC RILEY

Recently, the casual reader of the sport page of the Golden Gater may have read several news items regarding a group of "leather-lunged" young men who seemingly take some measure of delight in running great distances in what is generally referred to as a cross country race.

Track, that oldest of all sports (which many have come to regard merely as an interlude between baseball games), was once combined with gold-plated apples in ancient Greece. Now don't get us wrong; you could have your track meets with or without apples, according to your taste. The fact is, we know of but one instance in which they were used.

It seems that Jupiter, whose hands were full (what with his wife casting spells all over the place), was a nervous wreck. Everyone brought his difficulties to the old boy, and all of the decisions which rested with him were driving him just a wee bit off his beam. In a quavering voice he announced that he was "beat," and that Ithacans with an axe to grind would have to abandon verbal races and stretch their legs if they wanted action. And they did, too. Take the case of Atlanta...

MOST AMAZING

By far the most amazing incident of the cinderpath concerns this fair maiden, who, although she had the makings of a real slick chicken, was in reality the victim of a rectangular complex, (square, that is.) Her idol and object of adoration was Diana, the huntress; Atlanta spent most of her time running with the deer, just to be like her.

Of course, she had many suitors, but fearing that she wouldn't be free to gallivant about the forests if married, she held them at bay with the coy explanation that she would wed only the man who defeated her in a race. In case he lost, the man would forfeit of all things, his head. Curiously enough, this proved a satisfactory arrangement for all except Atlanta, who found the heads were lanta spent most of her time run-cluttering up her living room!

FAST GIRLS

This sort of thing went on for some time until Hippomenes, a gent who had run with some pretty fast girls in his time, was elected to hold the tape. Fascinated by her beauty, he sought to race with her, figuring that he could win if it didn't have to be done fairly. It didn't. He knew that her weakness was golden apples. Since the days when King Midas had put the touch on everyone, there had been quite a little aurum lying around, but few golden apples. The old duffer hadn't been very fond of fruit.

Later, amid the cheers of Ithacan nobility and peanut vendors, Hippomenes and Atlanta began their sprint. With a whiz she took the lead, but was slowed considerably when Hippomenes beamed her with a 14-karat winesap. When on the last lap he let fly with a salvo, she stopped to pick the irresistible nuggets from the track, as Hippomenes breasted the tape to win her hand, fortune, and the Olympic sweepstakes.

What happened to the speedy couple? For all we know they lived happily ever after, working for a four-minute mile.

KRTG Initiates Diversified Shows

Plans were disclosed for inauguration of a greatly expanded KRTG program scheduled and 18 new members were welcomed into the Radio-Television Guild at Guild's meeting last Tuesday.

Effective Monday, KRTG will offer, in addition to hourly news summaries, a three times weekly one hour block of diversified programming. Included in the new services are two musical programs, a popular song show conducted by Guild's distaff members, and a series offering classical selections only. The ROTC will be spotlighted once a week as will a campus sports news show and a women's feature. The complete schedule will be published upon its release.

Insurance Representative On Campus Friday

Mr. Crockett will interview any interested persons of junior, senior, or graduate standing in the placement office. Appointments should be made prior to Friday.

Chancel Choir Sings Elijah

"Elijah," Felix Mendelssohn's musical setting of one of the Bible's most dramatic stories, will be sung by the Chancel choir of Calvary Presbyterian church, with Waldemar Jacobsen conducting, on Sunday evening, November 2, at 8 p.m. in the church sanctuary. Frank Pursell will sing the title role, other singers will be Paul Walti, tenor; Dorothy Byron, soprano; and Charlotte Formes, contralto, in other solo roles. Alden Gilchrist, organist at Calvary Presbyterian church will provide the accompaniment.

This oratorio, reflecting the influence that both Bach and Handel had on Mendelssohn, is considered to be his masterpiece and was the culminating work of his short but brilliant life.
